Assignment 2.1

For this project, I chose watercolor painting as my first medium because I ejoy how it creates soft transitions and atmospheric effects. watercolor allows to blend naturally throught techniques ~~seth~~ such as wet-on wet painting and transparent Layering. these qualities worked well for portraying a gothic castle during a stormy sunset because the medium can create dramatic skies, moving cloueds, and reflections with a sense of depth and emotion.

The transparency of watercolor helped communicate a mysterious and dreamlike mood. When I adapted the same design into a linocut print, the image ~~changed~~ ~~signi~~ become bolder graphic. instead of using color, the linocut relied on strong black and white contrast and carved lines, This made the castle look more dramatic and powerful.

I learned that different art mediums create different affects. Watercolor gives a soft and atmospheric look, while Linocut creates bold contrast and strong visual impact. Even with the same design, each medium makes the artwork feel different
